

HOSPITAL WOULD EXPEND $80,000

Claim Made in Dr. Dunn's Injunction Case—If Blocked Now Corporation Will Lose $15,000—Dr. Dunn Stands on His Lease—Is Still Occupying the Partly Demolished Building.

In the superior court at New London on Friday Judge Case resumed the trial of the case of Dr. Frank M. Dunn vs. Manwaring Memorial hospital, a suit brought by the plaintiff for $20,000 damages and for an injunction to restrain the defendant from further proceeding to tear down the building in which the plaintiff has his dwelling and office as a physician and surgeon, and also for a mandatory injunction to compel the defendant to restore the chimneys, the roof, water and electric light, of which he claims to have been deprived.

This is the case where the hospital are about to erect a large business block on the site of the Dunn building in which Dr. Dunn claims that he has a lease of the entire second floor for the next three years.

The arguments in the case were begun by Donald G. Perkins for the plaintiff, who claimed that Dr. Dunn, being in peaceable possession of his apartments as a tenant, under the law could not be removed forcibly by the landlord. He argued that the law in such cases required the landlord to resort to legal proceedings and would not justify the use of superior force. He contended that the law was so that even if the defendant had removed Dr. Dunn by force from his apartments the statute relating to forcible entry and detainer provided that the courts should restore the tenant to the ejected and that the law relating to landlord and tenant and to forcible entry alone established the legal right of possession in the plaintiff and made it incumbent upon the court by injunction to safeguard that right and protect the plaintiff in the occupancy of his apartments and the premises to their former condition of good repair and usefulness. Mr. Perkins cited law cases in support of his contention.

DIVORCE MATTERS AT SHORT CALENDAR SESSION

Three Men and Two Women Obtain Release from Matrimonial Bonds.

At the short calendar session of the superior court at New London, Friday morning, eight of the cases on the list were postponed, and in Burdick vs. Burdick, motion to place on uncontested list for failure to plead, the case went off. Judge William S. Case presided.

Bonds of $75 in two weeks and a bill of particulars were ordered to be filed in George B. Church vs. Harry Wright.

Both motions were granted in the Pendleton vs. Stonington savings bank, asking for change of order of sale and approval of contract of sale.

Judgment for $6,795.74 was given in Savings Bank of New London vs. A. DeGoller and others, and 30 days given as the limitation of time for demerit. This is a suit for foreclosure of a $4,000 mortgage on four tracts of land in New London in which the defendants are sixteen heirs of the late Susan I. Schofield of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

In the divorce suit of Anna M. Walker vs. Henry H. Walker, both of Norwich, the court granted a motion for a more specific statement of the times, places and persons of the adultery charges. Answer is to be made in two weeks.

On the list of uncontested divorces, Clifford Caswell of North Stonington was granted an annulment of his marriage with Susan Caswell to whom he was married on August 26, 1911, at North Stonington. Documents were produced to show that at that time she had already been married in New York to Houston Flint and that this marriage was still in effect. Attorney Edward T. Burke appeared for the plaintiff.

Divorce on the grounds of desertion and the custody of two minor children was given in the suit brought by John Alfred Sawyer of Groton against Lilian M. Sawyer to whom he was married March 1, 1900. She deserted him, it was alleged, on April 19, 1909.

Also on the grounds of desertion, Dr. Harry M. Lee of New London was granted divorce from Maude Nelson Lee of Pasadena, Cal., to whom he was married October 5, 1898. Desertion since May 12, 1909, was charged. The custody of a minor daughter was given to the plaintiff.

Mae Belle Howland Marshall of Groton obtained the decree of divorce she sued from James Carlton Marshall of Montreal. The plaintiff charged desertion since November 20, 1903, and also habitual intemperance and intolerable cruelty. They were married June 20, 1901. The custody of a minor child was given to the mother.

Minnie Barrow of New London, whose maiden name was Minnie Faulkner, obtained a divorce decree from Frank Barow, now residing at Turkey Hill, Canada. They were married November 5, 1883 and the decree was secured on the grounds of desertion.

Edwin A. Maynard asked a divorce from Sarah M. Maynard. He claimed that Mrs. Maynard had been guilty of adultery on divers occasions between March 1, 1903, and January 1, 1912. Mr. Maynard stated that he had never lived with his wife and had never done anything for their child. Judge Case asked Maynard if he meant to say that he had never done anything for his child, and he said that he had not, as the child had been adopted by a family with his consent.

Mrs. Maynard's maiden name was Sarah May Babcock. The couple were married December 1, 1897. Town Clerk John C. Turner read the record of a birth to Mrs. Maynard, which occurred in 1911.

The only other witness was his father, James R. Maynard, employed by the G. M. Long Co. He testified that he knew his son and his son's wife have never lived together.

Judge Case did not think the evidence strong enough and asked Attorney G. Curtis Morgan, counsel for Maynard, on what conceivable ground the action was brought. Attorney Morgan replied that it was claimed that in view of the fact that Maynard and his wife had not lived together and that she had a child born to her in 1911 proved the claim of adultery. Judge Case stated that he would take the papers.

Waterford Man Wants Divorce.

In a new divorce suit, in which papers have been filed with Clerk Parsons of the superior court, Gordon T. Miller of Waterford asks a decree from Sadie L. H. Miller, now of parts unknown. Sadie L. Holmes was the maiden name of the plaintiff and the couple was married on August 1, 1905. She deserted him, it is charged on September 24, 1905.

Major Hadial Hull in behalf of the defendants argued that the defendants were under contracts already entered into to erect a building on the Dunn site that would entail an expenditure of about $80,000, and that if the defendants could not take down the Dunn building they would suffer a loss through their contracts of $15,000. He maintained that it was not fair nor just that this great enterprise of the hospital corporation should be held up for three years to come. He urged that the great interests involved to the corporation and to New London ought to weigh against the interference by the court with the defendants' taking down the Dunn building.

There was a colloquy between the attorney and the judge in which Mr. Hull claimed that the contentions of Mr. Perkins were not well grounded. He further urged that the court should grant no injunction, but leave the plaintiff to go out or be put out by the defendant and then resort to his legal rights to receive such damages as his dispossession might cause. He further contended that the three year lease was invalid, that President Charles B. Graves had no authority or right to give it, and that it was done without the knowledge or assent of his fellow trustees of the hospital corporation.

Attorney William H. Shields made the closing argument for the plaintiff. He took up for discussion the question of the validity of the three year lease under which Dr. Dunn was now holding. He pointed out that the president of the corporation in giving the three year lease in the name of the corporation had exercised an authority that was left to him by the board of trustees when they committed the whole care and management of their property to him. He pointed out that the evidence showed that Dr. Graves had executed in the name of the hospital two prior leases to Dr. Dunn for four years and a lease to Mr. Darrow for five years, that through his brother, James M. Graves, a real estate agent, the president attended to all the dealings of the property and to all the collections of the rents, and practically did every act of management and control over the real estate.

He called attention to the fact that the first lease signed by the president to Dr. Dunn was drawn by the Hon. Alfred Colt, then and now one of the trustees of the corporation; that Mr. Colt also inserted in the second lease in his own handwriting the term of three years for which the plaintiff was to hold, and also that Mr. Colt when the controversy arose admitted to Dr. Dunn that his lease was a legal and binding one upon the corporation and that the president of the corporation himself in his last talk with the plaintiff admitted that he considered the three year lease as binding and legal. The attorney claimed that the true measure of the president's authority were the acts that he was permitted invariably to do.

Mr. Shields called the attention of the court to the outrage that had been done to Dr. Dunn and his wife by the action of the defendants, picturing the desolation in which they now were living, without light, without heat, without water, with their apartments exposed to rain and cold. In closing Mr. Shields urged the court to apply the powerful remedy of injunction to this case by restraining the defendants from taking down the building and by compelling them to restore the building to its former condition of usefulness.

Judge Case took the papers in the case for further consideration and the court adjourned till next Tuesday.

Small Fire in Sherman Street.

About 12.40 o'clock Friday noon Chemical company No. 3 of Sherman street received word that there was a fire in the house occupied by John Curran and family at No. 19 Sherman street and they made a quick response. The auto chemical also responded, being summoned by telephone, and they reached the house on Sherman street, three minutes after being notified of the fire. A mattress in the house caught fire and when the firemen arrived it was thrown into the street, where the flames were extinguished by chemicals. The only damage by fire was to the mattress. It was caused by children who were playing with matches.

NORWICH GOLF CLUB.

Opening Day for Events on Ladies' Calendar a Success—The Winners.

Thursday was the opening day for the events of the ladies' calendar of the Norwich Golf Club. There were ten entries in the contest for the handicap cup and Mrs. Willie Austin returned the best card, 115. The second best card was turned in by Miss Ada L. Richards, who had a score of 121. Mrs. Austin, who is at present the holder of the cup, has been the holder of it since the days of the old Norwich Golf club. There were several ladies from New London among the entries.

The ladies who took part in the contest were Mrs. Robert Chappell, Mrs. J. P. T. Armstrong and Mrs. Carey Congdon of New London, and Mrs. Willie Austin, Miss Ada L. Richards, Miss Pauline Chase, Miss Anna Chase, Miss Elizabeth Chase, Miss Lois Perkins and Miss Helen Smith of this city. The committee in charge—Miss Ada L. Richards (chairman), Mrs. Robert Chappell and Miss Lois Perkins—feel greatly encouraged over the interest shown in the contest.

Later in the season another day will be set aside for playing for the handicap cup. It is hoped that many more ladies will be interested enough to enter the contests, as an attractive programme has been arranged for the full season. Beginning the week of Oct. 21 play for the challenge cup will commence, and will continue through the week. During the tournament it will be all match play.
